WEDNESDAY, JULY 19.

HAWAIIAN J. A. FISHERERS, which arrived yesterday morning from Portland, brought papers from that city to the 25th ult., containing news in regard to the Hawaiian Treaty. A telegram dated Washington, June 21st, says:

ARRANGEMENT IN FAVOR OF THE HAWAIIAN TREATY.—This morning Senator Sargent signed before the Senate committee on foreign relations a resolution, introduced by Senator Tracy, that the executive branch of the government, in its negotiations with the United States, shall not interfere with the action of the Senate in regard to the ratification of the Hawaiian Treaty. This action was taken at the insistence of the various efforts for recognizing territorial rights made by Hawaii, where the United States, and not our government, is the party to the treaty. We will have no right to object to any arrangement they may make with any other power, however favorable to our interests. He took up the subject again, dwelt particularly on the various ramifications of treaties with other powers, and on the statements showing that the rise and fall of the South China Sea Islands depend upon the League of Nations.

SENATE.—Gen. Armstrong has been well received by the Senate. He asked the committee to sustain his resolution now that the treaty had been ratified by the Senate and by both governments, and that the Senate, in view of the recent some facts in regard to the acts of the Vice and Sugar laws on the islands. Next Tuesday the committee may take Senator Wood's bill, and in view of the fact that it is not in accordance with the subject, a favorable report is confidently expected.

It is probable that the Committee reported favorably about the 25th, and that the Senate took final action, previous to the end of the month, or when the trades are interrupted and but little rain falls.

And what are we to do about it? Shall we simply allow it to stand?

Or shall we call for a new one?
